

Belfast

Hospitality Employment Academy

Training talented jobseekers to meet your business needs

For further information please call 028 9089 0313

people1st
performance through people

Belfast Works
LEMIS + Project

Belfast
City Council

www.belfastcity.gov.uk/employability

Need help in finding trained talent for entry-level hospitality roles?

The Hospitality Employment Academy could help

If you're recruiting, we'd like to invite you to take part in this new programme, which will attract and train job seekers to take up entry-level positions in the hospitality industry, with a view to a career.

This training programme covers vital and specialist skills required by businesses within the hospitality sector including food safety, health and safety, customer service, team working and an induction to the industry.

The HEA programme is open to hospitality businesses who have full/part time entry level vacancy/vacancies. All you need to do is guarantee an interview for successful candidates.

The benefits to participating employers include:

- access to a pool of talent with the right attitude and skills to fit your requirements at no cost to you
- opportunity to add value to the training programme to meet your individual recruitment needs
- the chance to raise the profile of your business and make a positive impact in supporting the local community.

How to get involved

To register your interest in this scheme, or for information contact Catherine on 028 9089 0313

Supported by:

